David Leslie, sixth Earl of Leven, who was for 1802. about twenty years Lord High Commissioner, representing the Sovereign at the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland in Edinburgh, was born in 1722. He took great pleasure in the annual display at his official processions in the capital of Scotland, which in those days were denominated the Commissioner walking, when he was wont to be accompanied by a number of the Scottish nobility, equipped in their court habiliments. He held this official appointment up to the commencement of the nineteenth century. He died in Edinburgh 1802. He resided many years in Nicolson s Square, and latterly at St. Andrews Square. Byron here alludes to the Earl of Aberdeen, the recent prime minister of Great Britain. In 1803 a literary club was established in Edin 1803 burgh, somewhat after the manner of Wills s in London. The Edinburgh one originated with Sir Walter Scott, and met every Friday evening.
