Sedgwick, on the Occasion of the Obsequies at Syracuse, April 19th, 1865 Fellow Citizens: - On this day the obsequies of Abraham Lincoln, late President of the United States, are being celebrated in the Capital of the Nation, Slowly and sadly, amid the tears and lamentations of the people, and the great throbs of a mighty Republic's heart, the long procession moves, to bear his mortal remains to their final resting place in that distant town upon the Western prairies. That to him greenest spot of all the earth was his home, and there a little more than four years ago he bade adieu to fireside enjoyments and home-born happiness, to assume the robes of office and the cares of state. His touching farewell to his friends and neighbors at his departure, was full of pathetic tenderness and prophetic sadness. He foresaw too plainly that he was launching his frail bark upon a sea at all times...
